

03/02/06

To whom it may concern,

The American Montessori is not your typical daycare. They provide a loving and structured environment to help each child develop. They recognize that each child learns at a different pace and some need individual attention. The staff really care about each child as an individual- Our son's teachers were able to recognize that he was having some difficulties and addressed the situation right away- Because of this he was able to get the help he needs before it became a major issue- He has made great strides in his language skills and has become much happier at school and at home- It is a wonderful place for our child and our family. I am sure that the lessons and experiences he has had at the American Montessori will carry with him through out his life.

Sincerely,

Suzie, Matt and Dominik Rettinger